Please see the attached application form for training dates.

This 21-hour course will prepare first responders, citizens and businesses with the skills to take care of themselves, families, businesses and their community. The CERT concept was initially developed by the Los Angeles Fire Department to provide the citizens of Los Angeles with basic training in disaster survival and rescue skills in the event of an earthquake. The training program proved to be so beneficial that the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) adopted the program and expanded the CERT materials to make them applicable to all hazards. The primary reason for CERT training is to provide employees and citizens with the skills to take care of themselves, their families, and their neighbors following a disaster, until first responders can arrive. CERT training covers disaster preparedness, fire safety, basic disaster medical operations, light search and rescue, disaster psychology, terrorism, and team operations.

No more than 25 students will be admitted into the course. Participants will be accepted on a first come, first serve basis, so submit your application ASAP.
